LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

To the Hon. Samuel Lewis Shank, Mayor of Indianapolis, and to the Contributors to the Indianapolis Flood Relief Fund:

GENTLEMEN—We present herewith a report of the operations of the General Relief Committee appointed by the Mayor of Indianapolis to receive and distribute funds and to do whatever was possible to rehabilitate that part of the city that was submerged by flood waters following the extraordinary rainfall in March of this year. This, we believe, is the only community disaster that Indianapolis has ever suffered and a record of the methods of relief has been deemed advisable.

While the flood itself affected only a small part of the city directly, yet indirectly the whole city was involved for a few days, as the public water supply and transportation lines were cut off and wild reports of overwhelming disaster were current abroad. Public utilities were soon restored to service, but several thousand families along the water fronts were either driven from their homes or to upper floors, their household goods damaged or destroyed and their means of subsistence interfered with. The entire community co-operated in the relief that was undertaken. The within pages indicate how the money and supplies that were intrusted to the General Relief Committee were disposed of. Roughly speaking, the committee estimates that the contributed goods and supplies distributed through the committee approximated in value those purchased by it. But obviously there was no time to make inventory of these. The grateful thanks of the community are due many unknown and unnamed contributors and helpers as well as those whose identity was established. The committee's work was practically completed by mid-summer except as to onerous details that fell to the secretary's willing hands. Publication of a final report has awaited the audit company's statement, which is attached hereto. We have deposited the minutes and other records of the committee's proceedings in the city library

Respectfully,
GENERAL RELIEF COMMITTEE.
November, 1913, Indianapolis.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

OCTOBER 27, 1913.

General Relief Committee:

GENTLEMEN—On Saturday, March 22, 1913, IT RAINED. On Sunday it rained even harder, and on Monday and Tuesday there was an almost constant downpour. In those four days there was an average rainfall in central Indiana of eleven inches. North of Indianapolis the rainfall was as heavy as twelve inches. That was an equinoxial storm not to be forgotten. Indianapolis is in the White River valley, and much of that tremendous rainfall was along this stream and its tributaries. So that water came our way. The White River is not a large body of water ordinarily, but it flows in a capacious bed which was all too small for this unprecedented fall of water. The result in Indianapolis was a flood, and no one on earth could help it.

When the earth dykes across the bottoms began to break on Monday and the river to overflow no one anticipated any great trouble. But as the rain continued to fall and the river to rise neighborhood after neighborhood was threatened. Men were called to help in saving the levees, while the people were urged to flee from danger. There was none too much time, however. Before hundreds had realized the situation the last walls of defense were broken through and muddy water from four to ten feet deep was rushing over four square miles of territory within and near the city. There were nearly four thousand families, mostly earnest working people of modest means, living in that district. It is with gratitude that we record that out of such a multitude of people caught in the water, only three were drowned; and that in all the days of confusion and distress following that flood and until now, seven months later, there has been no epidemic of any kind and no unusual loss of life by disease.

The flood had broken in its full rage Tuesday evening. Early Wednesday morning, March 26, Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank called together the following men to act as a Citizens' Relief Committee:

H. C. Atkins,	Richard Lieber,
Hilton U. Brown,	A. C. Lowrie,
Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht,	Samuel E. Rauh,
Louis Hollweg,	Rev. F. S. C. Wicks,
Geo. H. Larke,	Ernest Bross,
Frank D. Loomis,	R. O. Hawkins,
Wm. J. Mooney,	John H. Holliday,
Geo. Vonnegut,	G. F. Kirkhoff,
Frederic M. Ayres,	James W. Lilly,
Frank Duffy,	C. J. Lynn,
Stoughton A. Fletcher,	Jos. C. Schaf.
Jos. B. Kealing,

This committee met at the Mayor's office at ten o'clock that morning, four only being absent, and organized for business by electing Wm. J. Mooney, Chairman; Richard Lieber, Vice-chairman; Frederic M. Ayres, Treasurer, and Frank D. Loomis, Secretary.

Four standing committees were appointed as follows:

A Committee on Food, Fuel and Clothing—

R. O. Hawkins, Chairman,	James W. Lilly,
A. B. Gates,	Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht,
Frank Duffy,	Rev. F. S. C. Wicks.

A Committee on Housing—

Geo. Vonnegut, Chairman,	H. C. Atkins,
Jos. C. Schaf,	G. F. Kirkhoff,
C. S. Grout,	F. D. Loomis,

to which were later added:

W. K. Stewart,	W. D. Allison,
Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht,	J. F. Thornton.

A Committee on Finance—

F. M. Ayres, Chairman,	John H. Holliday,
Stoughton A. Fletcher,	Louis Hollweg.
C. J. Lynn,

A Committee on Publicity—

H. U. Brown, Chairman,	Ernest Bross.
Geo. H. Larke,

ALL RELIEF AGENCIES UNITED.

All relief forces of the city were immediately put at the disposal of the Citizens' Committee. In the membership of the committee were represented also the leading civic, social and commercial agencies of Indianapolis, as well as the newspapers, the earnest support of all of whom was immediately assured, a fact which was of very great assistance to the committee in perfecting its organization. The work of rescue and relief was systematized as rapidly as possible and hundreds of volunteers with boats and rafts toiled heroically night and day removing flood victims from upper floors and carrying food to those that could not be rescued by boat.

Tomlinson Hall had been opened Tuesday by the police as a place of shelter for refugees, and a large number of people had been cared for during the night. The place was in the charge of the State Militia Hospital Corps under Surgeon-Major Boaz. The task of providing regular food for these people was immediately taken in hand by the Food Committee. The Housing Committee proceeded to make more room for refugees by sending cots and bedding to Manual Training and Shortridge High Schools, which were opened that day under the charge of Drs. Foxworthy and Emhardt respectively, these gentlemen and their assistants being detailed to us from the State Militia Hospital Corps by the Governor.

THE STATE'S CO-OPERATION.

The prompt assistance of the Governor, not only in detailing the officers above mentioned, but also two companies of State militia who were already patrolling the river and assisting the police in the rescue of victims, and in detailing to the Food Committee Major Compton of the State's Commissary Department, and in many other ways, was deeply appreciated by the committee and our entire citizenship.

The Manual Training High School building proved to be so well adapted to the work of the committee in sheltering flood victims that on the evening of March 27 all refugees in care of the committee were transferred to that structure. The report of Dr. Foxworthy to the Governor on April 5, the day the place was closed, shows that seven hundred and thirty-nine different refugees had been housed there from one to ten nights each, and that more than fifteen thousand meals had been served either at the building or at the various rescuing stations along the river. It should be stated also that the Boys' Club building and St. Vincent's Infirmary were used in conjunction with the High School building. The largest number cared for in any one night in these public stations was on Sunday evening, March 30, when one hundred and seventy-two women and children and more than three hundred men were housed in these three buildings. Dr. Foxworthy mentions especially the valuable assistance of Prof. Milo H. Stuart, Principal of the School, and his teachers.

After the refugees were removed from Tomlinson Hall that building was used as headquarters for the handling of food, clothing and other supplies. The Commissary Department was placed under the charge of Major Samuel M. Compton, as mentioned above. His services and the amount of work he did are specifically mentioned in the report of Mr. Hawkins, Chairman of the Food and Fuel Committee.

The distribution of clothing, which was being sent in by contributors to Tomlinson Hall and to the City Hall in enormous quantities, was placed in the hands of a special sub-committee under Mr. Hawkins, with James W. Lilly as Chairman, and H. R. Danner, M. M. Feuerlicht, Chas. L. Hutchinson and C. A. Korbly. Mr. Danner became the active manager of this difficult work. He was assisted by a host of men and women, more particularly women, who worked at Tomlinson Hall and at the City Hall, as well as at various relief stations in the flooded territory, sorting the clothing, arranging it in bundles and distributing it to individuals who came with the proper identification slips. This was a monumental task. It would be impossible to mention individually the people who helped, but the committee is sincerely grateful to every one.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY COMMITTEE.

The work of these tireless workers was later taken over by a Women's Auxiliary Committee and handled with infinite patience and thoroughness from their headquarters at 118 E. Ohio street. This committee presents a report printed herewith.

SYSTEMATIC SURVEY.

Such, in brief, is the outline of the plan of work as it was first conducted at central relief or shelter stations. It was soon apparent, however, that these central stations could reach only a few of those who were in need. A systematic survey of the flooded region and population was seen to be a necessity if equitable and scientific relief were attempted. Such survey was made under the direction of W. J. Dobyns, chairman of a special committee on registration and information. He had the intelligent co-operation of school teachers who knew the families whose homes were flooded, and of other efficient volunteers. The survey showed that a large proportion of families in the flood were crowded into the homes of friends along the margin of the water line, and that all these people, both the rescued and the rescuers, were suffering from shortage of provisions. Not only had they been thrown out of work, but many places of employment were under water, and as stores were closed in many districts there was no convenient place to buy, even if the sufferers had the money.

It became apparent that supply stations in these districts were immediately needed. On March 28, 29 and 30 the following supply stations were put in operation, with directing heads as indicated:

SUPPLY STATIONS ESTABLISHED.

STATION NO. 1—General Headquarters for West Indianapolis, at School No. 46, corner Howard and McLain streets; Charles J. Lynn, General Chairman. Capt. Thos. F. Ryan, of the National militia, whose timely offer to give his service was confirmed by the Secretary of War at Washington, was placed in charge of the station, assisted by Herman P. Lieber and John J. Keegan. SUB-STATION 1A—Church of the Assumption, 1117 Blaine avenue, north of Morris street; the Rev. Joseph F. Weber. SUB-STATION 1B—Wulf's Hall, corner Morris street and Nordyke avenue; Samuel E. Rauh. SUB-STATION 1C—Storeroom at 1239 Oliver avenue; Indianapolis Business Men's Association.

STATION NO. 2—District west of river and north of Washington street: Station at Wesley Chapel and at 244 Elder avenue, next door; Capt. George V. Coffin, of the Indianapolis Police Department. SUB-STATION 2A—Lauter Memorial Building, Market and Greely streets; Mrs. Maude Moudy, Principal of School No. 16.

STATION NO. 3—District east of White River and north of Washington street: Station at 973 West New York street, Grocer's Baking Company Building; Warren D. Oakes and C. A. McCotter. SUB-STATION 3A—Montcalm and Sixteenth streets; Chas. L. Hutchinson.

STATION NO. 4—District east of White River, south of Pogue's Run: Station at West Raymond street and Bluff road; E. C. Brennan and Tony Byer.

Supplies were immediately sent to these depots and the distribution begun. The report on April 1 showed that twenty-five truck loads of garments and thirty thousand rations had been distributed. Each applicant for relief was registered on a card, 3 by 5 inches. Upon proper identification (by some one usually who lived in the district) the applicant received an order for such supplies as the number of persons in his family justified. A like order was repeated each morning as long as the station was open or until the particular family was able to care for itself.

If the applicant was unknown or was suspected of greed, a volunteer visitor was immediately sent to the address given. The distribution of further supplies was dependent upon the recommendation of the visitor.

On April 3 it was recommended that certain of the smaller supply stations be closed immediately, others gradually, any further applicants for emergency relief to be referred to the Women's Auxiliary, 118 E. Ohio street, to whom the Committee on Food and Fuel Supplies was authorized to furnish such provisions as should be necessary. On April 7 Mr. Hawkins, chairman of that committee, reported that distribution of food had been discontinued at all stations excepting at the Oliver avenue station and at Father Weber's station, where meals were being served. Most of the stations, however, continued open as centers of inquiry and information and for the distribution in a small way of sundry emergency supplies until April 15, when they were all finally closed. There was still need for relief work, but not on the same scale as heretofore. Accordingly, a fund of one thousand five hundred and twenty-five dollars ($1,525) was voted to the Charity Organization Society for the purpose of providing food and coal and continuing the work of the general committee in the submerged districts. This sum originally had been contributed to the Charity Organization Society for relief of the flood sufferers, but was turned over to the General Relief Committee when the magnitude of the work became apparent.

Besides the distribution of supplies to families, as above, meals were served at four supply stations, viz.: the Church of the Assumption, Wulf's Hall, Trinity Church (in conjunction with the Oliver avenue station) and Wesley Chapel (Station 2). At the Church of the Assumption and at Trinity Church a considerable proportion of the supplies needed were sent in directly by contributors, but the general committee furnished articles which were lacking.

The report of the chairman of the Committee on Food and Fuel Supplies discusses in detail the question of distribution. Coal was distributed almost entirely by this committee directly, with the assistance of investigators from various supply stations and from the Charity Organization Society. The report on file in the records of the committee shows that four hundred and fourteen different families received one hundred fifty-seven and one-fourth tons during this emergency period.

THE LARGER TASK.

Thus far this report has indicated roughly the work of the committee in the relief of families and individuals who were in temporary need because of the flood. That the committee faced a larger task, however, was soon apparent—the task of the rehabilitation of hundreds of families whose household goods had been destroyed, whose homes had been damaged and made uninhabitable and who would not be able to establish themselves readily again in normal living conditions without help. Particularly was it made apparent that great quantities of furniture had been destroyed by the water. Tables, beds, chairs, pianos, kitchen cabinets and sewing machines were everywhere in the flooded district reported hopelessly damaged and generally in pieces.

Just how big this task would be nobody knew. Our first necessity, therefore, was accurate information. To secure that, a committee of five men was appointed, consisting of Wm. J. Dobyns, S. E. Rauh, J. F. Thornton, A. M. Glossbrenner and J. C. Schaf. This committee was appointed at a conference of the general committee Sunday afternoon, March 30. They immediately began their plans for a thorough canvass of the flooded districts. A registration card was adopted (copy of which is reproduced elsewhere in this report), such information as was already in hand was recorded, notices were published requesting all those who needed help to call at headquarters (not for indiscriminate help, but for registration), and a large force of volunteer visitors, business men and school teachers was organized to follow up applications and make a general survey.

The volunteer visitors began their work Tuesday, April 1. Each house in the district was visited and, so far as possible, reports were returned as to the damage done to property and the probable needs of families. By Wednesday evening this advance committee had gone over the ground and reported lists showing that the household goods of more than three thousand families had been engulfed in the flood and that nearly all of these families were fairly entitled to some assistance.

This survey gave the committee its first definite information showing the magnitude of work to be done. Upon the recommendation of the committee an advisory commission of twenty-five men was appointed to continue the work of investigation and tabulation so as to avoid oversight and duplication. This commission was organized on Thursday evening, April 3, with Sol. S. Kiser as chairman. The committee took the registration cards which had been turned in and began their work of re-investigation and classification Friday morning.

Meantime many emergency cases were constantly coming to the attention of members of the general committee. To provide for these promptly an emergency committee was appointed consisting of George Vonnegut, H. C. Atkins and W. K. Stewart. With the assistance of experienced visitors from the Children's Aid Association, the Juvenile Court and the Charity Organization Society, this committee was paying advance rent for the sick and helpless in new quarters, giving small orders on local stores in cases of dire necessity, paying transportation out of the city for a few stranded families, etc.

NEW FURNITURE.

By Saturday, April 5, the Advisory Commission had made such progress that it began to put into effect a plan for furniture relief, and the first regular orders on the furniture supplies of the Housing Committee were issued. This was the beginning of work which required more than two full months for completion. The progress of the work—how furniture was secured, the delays incident to the unprecedented demand for furniture in many cities and how it was distributed—is explained in the report of the Housing Committee, page 24.

THE JUDGE ROSS COMMITTEE.

When it became apparent that the work of rehabilitating the river region was herculean, Judge Frank B. Ross, of the Marion County Probate Court, came forward with a "one-hundred-dollar plan." He suggested that as many citizens as could afford it agree each to restore one house and family and that a unit of one hundred dollars be adopted for this purpose. His lead was followed by hundreds of men and women and a great work followed. Besides the individual contributions direct to householders, this committee collected four thousand, seven hundred nineteen and eighty-eight hundredths dollars ($4,719.88), of which it expended in relief two thousand eighty-five and ninety hundredths dollars ($2,085.90), and the balance, two thousand six hundred thirty-three and ninety-eight hundredths dollars ($2,633.98), was turned over to the General Relief Committee.

Monday morning, April 7, the General Committee moved its headquarters from the City Hall to the Murphy Building, 30 E. Georgia street. The committee was given the free use of the entire lower floor of this large building. It was well adapted to our needs. Administrative desks and tables were arranged in the front, furniture and other supplies were stored and handled from the rear. In arranging the desks here the Advisory Commission and the Emergency Committee were placed together under the general direction of Mr. Kiser. Henceforth the actual work of investigation was conducted by a small force of trained social workers. The statement of work done by this committee will be found on page 38.

CLEANING UP.

The Housing Committee, besides distributing furniture to those who were ready for it, began about this time to assist individuals in the cleaning and repairing of their houses and furniture. The general problem of cleaning up the flooded territory had been attacked vigorously by the City Board of Health and the City Street Cleaning Department under the direction of Dr. T. Victor Keene. Volunteers also were called on to assist with wagons and men, the Mayor himself sometimes leading with a shovel. Gangs of workmen were brought from the Marion County Workhouse, under guard, and these men did good work clearing up debris and opening the streets again for traffic. Groups of men were employed also by the committee to assist individuals in their homes. Rubbish was removed and mud shoveled out. Tubs, mops, shovels, brooms, brushes, pails, washboards and soap were freely distributed at the various supply stations. As soon as it was possible, groups of contractors and men were put at work planing down doors so that they would fit, mending broken windows, leveling warped floors, putting in new boards to replace broken siding, fixing up porches, mending broken walls, repairing furniture, etc.

HOUSE REPAIR WORK.

It was speedily found that the repair work would require the entire attention of a special committee with ample funds and authority. W. D. Allison was appointed chairman and the General Committee appropriated the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) as a beginning for this particular purpose. The report of work done by this committee will be found on page 28.

By May 20 the work of the General Committee was so far completed that it was possible to close the main office and establish mere headquarters in a room of the Charity Organization Society in the Baldwin Block. All ordering of furniture was discontinued after June 6. The office was closed entirely June 28. Certain straggling work remained, however, and some uncompleted contracts and later discovered necessities have kept the Chairman and Secretary and the committee heads on call and at work all summer, and even until the date of this report.

In closing this report mention must be made of certain general policies and broad interests of this committee which will be a part of the history of this flood.

PROFFERED OUTSIDE AID DECLINED.

One of the early problems which confronted the committee was the question of accepting aid from other cities or people living outside of Indianapolis. While such relief was offered most profusely from certain sources, more particularly Chicago, whose Chamber of Commerce telegraphed they would raise one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) if we needed it, and the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, which offered ten thousand dollars ($10,000), and while numerous other cities telegraphed their sympathies and wished to be advised if they could help, the committee felt that in view of suffering and loss all around, much of it greater than ours, Indianapolis should, and would, take care of her own. With deep gratitude for the kind spirit of brotherhood which prompted these offers, the committee, however, telegraphed accordingly in reply to each of them. Notwithstanding the committee's assurances that Indianapolis would take care of its own situation and would advise that outside aid be diverted to the State and to cities and towns that had suffered more than Indianapolis had suffered, many contributions of money, clothes and supplies, particularly from near-by communities, were sent in, and, of course, were gratefully received and used either in Indianapolis or in other places that were in need.

The committee felt that with all our trouble the people of Indianapolis were not in such distress as to be entirely unmindful of the sufferings of those round about us. Evidence of this was in the appointment of a State Committee—John H. Holliday, Chairman; C. W. Fairbanks, Louis Hollweg, Thomas C. Howe and Hilton U. Brown—to co-operate with the Governor in planning for the relief of other cities in the State. This committee was in frequent communication with the Governor's committee and aided substantially in co-ordinating the work of relief in the State and its capital. The Press Committee also—Hilton U. Brown, Chairman—advised the following telegram, which was sent to other cities in Indiana known to be suffering from the flood: "Indianapolis, in common with yourself and other cities, is suffering from the flood, but the generous responses of our people will result in sufficient funds with which to relieve all local distress, and will, we hope, enable us to do something for others. Please advise us by the speediest way possible what your greatest needs are and how Indianapolis can help you."

Replying to this telegram, two or three smaller cities asked for assistance, which was speedily granted. Also two carloads of clothing and provisions were shipped to sufferers at Dayton and at Hamilton, Ohio.

The work of the Press Committee, especially in quieting false and sensational reports alleging tremendous loss here and in assuring the civilized world that we were still alive and ready for business, had almost immediate effect in restoring or maintaining normal economic conditions, a matter of very great importance to every individual in our citizenship. Exaggerated reports in the few hours when all communications with the outside world were cut off either by reason of the water in central Indiana or further away, had disturbed the whole country. Between three and four thousand families out of a total of nearly fifty thousand had been flooded. This was bad enough, but it was not beyond the resources of our own people to extend the needed helping hand. The waters had never before covered some of the ground inundated in the flood. The contributing causes, outside of the heavy rainfall, have been ascertained by engineers, and Indianapolis plans to make it impossible for so great a disaster to occur as afflicted a portion of its people in the year 1913.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK D. LOOMIS,

Secretary.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FOOD AND FUEL SUPPLIES

OCTOBER 27, 1913.

General Relief Committee:

GENTLEMEN—Your Committee on Food and Fuel Supplies consisted of

R. O. Hawkins,
Frank Duffy,
A. B. Gates,

James W. Lilly,
Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht,
Rev. F. S. C. Wicks.

FOOD.

The first duty of the committee was to supply food for refugees at Tomlinson Hall and at the Manual Training High School building. When we began our work we found that large quantities of supplies were being sent directly to these places by voluntary contributors, and during the few days these shelter stations were open a large part of the supplies were provided in this way. The committee was especially grateful to members of the First Baptist Church, who worked for several days making sandwiches, pies and other good things to eat, and to many other local organizations who helped in a similar way.

As soon as the water began to go down so that members of our committee could cross the river, we found hundreds of families on the west side being cared for by organizations there. Particularly was this true at Father Weber's Church of the Assumption, on Blaine avenue; at the West Washington Street Presbyterian Church; by Captain Coffin and other officers of the Indianapolis Police Department at the district police station on Belmont avenue; at the Morris Street Christian Church, and by the pastor and members of the Union Congregational Church at the residence of the pastor, the Rev. Mr.

Reeder, 1917 Dexter avenue. We also found that many families were being sheltered in the homes of their friends. The committee immediately proceeded to help these people by sending supplies directly to them or to supply stations which were at once opened in their neighborhoods.

Contributors in Indianapolis and elsewhere, as soon as the railroads were opened for traffic, continued to send food supplies to us in liberal quantities throughout the time of our work. We found it necessary, however, to supplement these with supplies purchased directly by the committee. If some station was in need of large quantities of certain articles, these were delivered directly there on the order of the committee. Otherwise general supplies were purchased in quantity and stored at Tomlinson Hall for delivery at relief stations as needed. Supplies contributed to the committee were handled in the same way.

After it was found possible to close several of the district supply stations, the Women's Auxiliary, at 118 E. Ohio street, rendered valuable assistance to the committee by searching out families who were isolated or in special need and sending food to them.

Our work was closed entirely on the 15th of April.

Our records show that the committee purchased and approved orders for food supplies and vouchers were issued in payment of the same to the amount of eleven thousand five hundred twenty-seven and sixty-eight hundredths dollars ($11,527.68). This does not include the one thousand five hundred and twenty-five dollars ($1,525.00) in cash turned over to the Charity Organization for taking the care and responsibility of furnishing future supplies. The bills and vouchers for the supplies purchased are on file with the treasurer of the committee.

It would be impossible for the committee to estimate the value of supplies contributed directly, without expense to the committee. In our opinion, however, the value of these supplies equalled, if they did not exceed, the amount of supplies purchased. We file herewith a list of donors so far as they are known to the committee. We also file herewith a statement showing the number of families who received supplies from the various stations.

When the stations were closed and the necessity for further distribution of supplies ceased and the greater need for furniture and house repairs became apparent, under the order of the committee we disposed of supplies on hand to the amount of one thousand fifty-four and fifty-nine hundredths dollars ($1,054.59). Checks for the money for goods sold we have turned over to the treasurer of the committee. A list of these supplies is filed herewith as part of this report.

FUEL.

Your committee has purchased and approved orders for fuel and the hauling of fuel to the amount of four hundred eighty-one and sixty-one hundredths dollars ($481.61). Most of this coal was placed in coal yards and distributed therefrom by the dealers upon our orders, which were issued to individuals upon recommendation of visitors who had investigated the need. Four hundred and fourteen families received coal in this way. The usual amount given a family was a thousand pounds, but sometimes less was sufficient. The total amount distributed to the four hundred and fourteen families was one hundred fifty-seven and one-fourth tons.

During the storm and in the early days of the flood, however, three carloads of coal were confiscated by police officers and distributed or used where needed, no account being kept. For this the committee afterwards paid.

The committee was at no expense for the hauling of supplies to the stations and from the railroads and other points to the headquarters, for the reason that the teams of the city of Indianapolis were largely utilized for that purpose, and all the employees of the city in connection therewith worked zealously and enthusiastically in assisting the committee in this very difficult part of the work.

During the more than three weeks in which the committee was actively engaged in this work many persons have favored us with very efficient services and many have furnished us automobiles and conveyances to assist in carrying on the work of the committee. It is impossible for the committee to set out the names of these persons. We do, however, desire to especially mention the services of Major Samuel M. Compton, C. O. Dodson and Harry L. Newby. These gentlemen were at work at headquarters from the beginning and throughout our entire work and rendered very valuable and efficient services to the committee.

Mr. Dodson, to the neglect of his private affairs, devoted his entire time, and by reason of his qualifications and knowledge of the grocery business and of the class of supplies that were handled by the committee his services were of very great benefit.

Major Samuel M. Compton was, at the request of the Chairman of the committee, detailed by the Governor to assist us, and by reason of his experience as a commissary officer in the army and in the State militia his services were of great value to the committee. He kept the records of all the supplies received and distributed in a very complete and efficient way.

Harry L. Newby was in charge, under Major Compton, at headquarters during the entire work of the committee, including Sunday and night work. He also had charge of the hauling and distribution of supplies, and was of great service to the committee in managing the teams and the distribution of supplies.

Bennett Gates, who was elected Secretary of the committee, gave his entire time during the first ten days of our work. Special mention should be made also of the services of Wm. Fox and of Mary Luella Mercer, who had charge of volunteer automobile service and of the telephone and information bureaus. To these and to the many others who assisted us the committee would recommend a sincere vote of thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

R. O. HAWKINS, Chairman,

Committee on Food and Fuel.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON HOUSING

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA, OCTOBER 27, 1913.

General Relief Committee:

GENTLEMEN—Your Committee on Housing is pleased to submit the following report:

The committee as appointed by you consisted of

George Vonnegut,	George F. Kirkhoff,
H. C. Atkins,	Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht,
Joseph C. Schaf,	Kerfoot Stewart,
F. D. Loomis,	W. D. Allison,
C. S. Grout,	J. F. Thornton,

and organized with George Vonnegut, Chairman, and F. D. Loomis, Secretary. It was assisted by many able and willing workers too numerous to mention.

Our first work consisted in arranging for the temporary housing of the flood sufferers, and they were promptly distributed and placed in Tomlinson Hall, the Manual Training High School, Shortridge High School, Schoolhouse No. 17 on West street, and in residences of citizens who offered shelter and temporary relief.

On March 29 our committee was authorized to give cash relief wherever and whenever it was deemed necessary and to proceed at once to provide for the permanent rehabilitation of flood victims. A plan for a systematic survey of the flooded territory being approved by the General Committee the following day, on the evening of March 31 our committee met at the Mayor's office with some of the leading local furniture dealers to consider methods of securing the furniture which would be needed. These gentlemen advised that in view of the shortage of furniture in local houses at this season of the year it would be best and cheapest for the committee to buy its supply direct from the manufacturers. The committee of furniture men offered their assistance in carrying out this plan, which was adopted, and an order given that evening for eleven thousand dollars' ($11,000) worth of furniture to be secured at once. The committee also decided to recommend to the General Committee that twenty-five thousand dollars' ($25,000) worth of furniture should be ordered, which recommendation was approved by the General Committee the following day. The committee also purchased large quantities of bedding and blankets, which were distributed at the various supply stations and later along with the furniture from general headquarters.

Mr. Gustave Recker was instructed to establish headquarters for receiving and distributing furniture. He first secured the use of the Taggart building at 122 S. Pennsylvania street. This was not large enough, so later we moved to the Murphy building. Mr. Recker was in charge of the distribution of furniture during the entire time of our work and to him we are under special obligations. He handled the work efficiently, being well fitted on account of his experience and knowledge of the furniture business.

In the distribution of furniture after its arrival we were liberally assisted by local merchants and manufacturers, who offered their wagons and trucks without expense.

On account of the great damage of furniture by the flood in other cities and the demands on the manufacturers, we experienced great difficulty in securing the furniture we needed. After many delays, on the advice of the General Committee, another meeting of furniture dealers was held on April 29, to discuss the practicability of distributing further orders from the investigation bureau through local furniture houses. Fifteen houses were represented. They reported that they were having some success in securing small shipments from the furniture manufacturers who regularly supplied them and they agreed to make us a special cost price on all orders which we should send them, the furniture to be delivered directly to the families named. This plan was accordingly adopted and new orders from that date were filed in that manner.

This arrangement partly transferred the worry of delay from our committee to the furniture dealers, but did not wholly remedy the difficulty. However, with the co-operation of all forces we were able to complete most of our orders in hand by the middle of June. Orders incom- pleted at that date were finished by sending cash instead of the furniture.

Records in the possession of the committee show the following goods purchased and distributed by the committee:

Bedsteads	1,366	Washstands	38
Springs	1,537	Dressers	206
Mattresses	2,249	Stoves	337
Blankets (pairs).....	2,178	Safes	146
Comforts	1,497	Hot plates.....	41
Pillows	1,535	Tubs	1,010
Kitchen tables.....	426	Pails	983
Extension tables.....	1,037	Brooms	600
Chairs	5,864	Jars	500
Rockers	630	Mops	948
Chiffoniers	598	Brushes	304

In addition to the above articles goods were distributed by fifteen furniture dealers amounting in all to eleven thousand six hundred and eight dollars and eight cents ($11,608.08).

After June 15 cash (with which to buy furniture) was given instead of furniture to the amount of one thousand five hundred and twelve dollars ($1,512).

Besides the above, dishes and kitchen utensils were delivered direct to families from local department stores at a cost to the committee of seven hundred twenty-seven dollars and thirteen cents ($727.13).

These goods were distributed among two thousand, three hundred and thirty-two families.

Large quantities of bedding and clothing material purchased by the committee and distributed at supply stations in the early emergency are not included in the above statement. The committee purchased and approved bills in all to a total of sixty thousand, two hundred sixty-one and nine-hundredths dollars ($60,261.09), all of which bills are on file in the hands of the treasurer of the General Committee.

In closing, the committee wishes to express its appreciation of the generous help we received from many sources, and we beg to recommend that a vote of thanks be tendered by the General Committee to all who assisted us so willingly.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE VONNEGUT, Chairman,

Committee on Housing.

REPORT OF HOUSE REPAIR COMMITTEE

OCTOBER 27, 1913.

General Relief Committee:

GENTLEMEN—The largeness of the task of repairing houses and furniture was definitely recognized by the General Committee on the 21st of April, when ten thousand dollars was appropriated, as a beginning, specifically for this work. Previous to this time the Housing Committee had been making some repairs in a small way, but the inability to employ help had made the progress of the work very slow. Moreover, little could be done at first until the houses and furniture were thoroughly dried.

The early responsibility for the making of repairs had been placed upon the undersigned as a member of the Housing Committee. When a larger appropriation was made he was placed in charge of the work, being authorized to proceed at once to secure carpenters, masons and such other help as should be needed, and to push the repair work as rapidly as possible. After conference with a number of experienced builders it was decided that the best method of procedure would be to engage general contractors, who would be responsible to the committee. F. C. Preston was placed in immediate charge of engaging these men and supervising their work.

Notice was published that persons living in their own homes in the flooded district could have the assistance of the committee in the repair of their houses. Taking a list of people who owned their homes, Mr. Preston went with each contractor and secured from him an estimate of the amount required to repair a given house. If the estimate was satisfactory the contract was made, a copy being kept in the office to record exactly what was to be done. The contractor was given two copies of the contract, one for his own record, the other to be signed by the owner of the house and returned to the General Committee, after the work had been completed. Under this method, the work of repairing houses proceeded rapidly.

A number of houses were so badly damaged that considerable time was required in which to make repairs. Several houses had been washed off of their foundations. These foundations had to be rebuilt and the houses set back again. Many of the houses had practically to be rebuilt. In such cases the committee supplied the deficit of the amount necessary in paying the contractor for the work after the owner had secured such loans on the property as he was able.

In the progress of our work we found a number of families who were able to make their own repairs if material was given them, or they were able to work with the carpenter or mason whom they themselves engaged. In these cases the committee assisted in the purchase of cement, glass, plaster or other materials. Furthermore, by allowance of cash when necessary. A few families needing considerable help preferred to accept part of the amount as a loan. Their notes for such loans were accepted, made payable to various relief societies, by order of the General Committee.

It was the policy of the committee merely to put the house in condition so that it could be used again by the owner. With a few exceptions of especially needy people the committee did not undertake to rebuild fences or walls, or outside sheds; nor did it help to any large extent with the repapering or repainting of houses. The committee was forced to this policy by the fact that practically every home in the district had been damaged in these ways, and the cost of helping every one alike would be far greater than the committee could bear.

In the repairs of furniture the committee made use, so far as possible, of the local furniture repair men who lived in the flooded district. In a few cases the committee bought new sewing machines to replace machines which had been entirely ruined, while others were repaired at low cost by the manufacturers.

Our records in the hands of the Secretary of the committee show the following work done:

Houses repaired by contractors	214
Lumber bills paid by the committee	50
Glass, cement wallpaper and sundry material purchased for different families	52
Houses repapered by the committee	13
Cash given direct to families	69
Furniture repaired for families	140
Number of different families helped by the Repair Committee...	358

The amount expended for the above items is as follows:

Contractors and laborers	$6,091.91
Lumber bills	1,209.73
Glass, cement and miscellaneous	620.57
Paper and papering	238.03
Cash to families for repairs	1,204.93
Repairs to furniture	1,027.27
The committee expended for automobiles and livery.....	55.00

Making total disbursements of.....$10,447.44

Respectfully submitted,

W. D. ALLISON, Chairman,

House Repair Committee.

REPORT OF WOMEN'S COMMITTEE

General Relief Committee:

GENTLEMEN—The Women's Committee for the Relief of Flood Sufferers was organized March 28, 1913, as the result of a call from Mrs. Samuel Ralston, and asked to work under the direction of the General Relief Committee. The organization elected Mrs. Eliza A. Blaker, Chairman, and she appointed a committee to select sub-committees and to appoint chairmen of such committees. A meeting of all women who were interested in relief was called at the Propylæum, March 29, and on April 1, through the courtesy of the Indianapolis Civic League, which offered rooms donated to the League, opened headquarters at 118 East Ohio street. The following committees were organized and worked faithfully until the various duties assigned were completed:

List of Committees—Personal Services; Immediate Relief; Sewing; Housing; Repairs and Cleaning; Clothing; Transportation; Furnishing; Publicity; Colored Women's Committee; Committee of Teachers of Public Schools for Obtaining Names of Families in Flood District.

Some of these committees worked directly under the General Committee, and in some instances in co-operation with similar committees of the General Committee. This was the case with the following committees: Furnishing, Housing and the Teachers' Committee which became part of the General Survey Committee. The Committee on Immediate Relief rendered valuable service in following up cases which were brought to its attention both by the General Relief Committee and by other reliable informants.

The Personal Service Committee carried hope and cheer to those who were despondent, visited sick in the hospitals, and gave every assistance which friendly feeling and sympathy prompted. This committee will continue from time to time to do all it can in the line of personal kindness and service, believing that there will be still need for its ministrations when other forms of work will have ceased.

Beginning with April 5, a commissary department was opened under the direction of the General Committee and rations moved from relief stations in other parts of town were distributed from the women's headquarters. As a result of this more than eleven hundred persons were reached with food.

The Sewing Committee made over sixteen hundred new garments from materials given it by the General Committee, and received from its various assistants over six hundred more articles, some of the material for which was furnished by the General Committee, which in many instances both garments and material were furnished by others outside of the General Committee.

The Colored Women's Committee issued rations to over three hundred families, clothing to over one hundred families, more than one hundred new garments were made, and fifty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents ($58.75) was collected and handed to the General Committee.

The Clothing Committee opened a station for distribution of clothing and many new garments were given out. Total number of garments, eight thousand two hundred and fifty-five (8,255); total number of persons fitted out, one hundred and sixty-five (165).

A committee was added at the request of the Board of Health to see that houses were properly cleaned and made sanitary. About forty houses were thus cared for.

The Committee on Repairs and Cleaning made many complaints to agents, property owners and to the different authorities in regard to conditions, and most faithfully endeavored to get its suggestions and recommendations carried out.

The Transportation Committee provided vehicles to take regular visitors into the flood district to see that those on business for the Auxiliary Committee were taken to places for the accomplishment of such business, and furnish means for conveying clothing, and, in some instances, supplies, to remote parts of town.

The Publicity Committee ably assisted the work by statements in the papers of needs by notification of meetings and by reports of the same.

The Auxiliary closed its headquarters April 26, 1913

Respectfully submitted,

For the Chairman,

MARY A. E. WOOLLEN, Vice-Chairman,

JULIA HARRISON MOORE, Secretary,

Women's Auxiliary.

NOTE OF EXPLANATION.

A collection taken at the Michigan street bridge was expended by the ladies in helping to furnish homes, and was not paid to the one-house committee.

The contribution made by the retail liquor dealers was expended by a committee of saloon men, under the direction of Mayor Shank, and was not paid to our committee.

A contribution of $200, made by a Mr. McHugh, was paid direct to Mayor Shank, and was expended by the Mayor in refurnishing homes.

Numerous persons, firms, corporations, lodges, unions, churches, societies, etc., have made contributions for the purpose of refurnishing homes, where the money was paid direct to some individual, and expended by the individual in refurnishing homes.

Numerous persons, who desired their contributions to be used in furnishing homes, sent their checks direct to Fred. M. Ayres, Treasurer, and the same was used by the General Committee in purchasing furniture to refurnish homes.

All the above sum of $4,719.88 was sent to me in spite of the fact that we publicly announced almost daily, through the press, that we did not desire cash contributions.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK B. ROSS, Chairman,

One House Plan Committee.
